

RANDLE SIDDELEY LIMITED

A leading landscape architecture, construction and maintenance company

RSL TAKES PRIDE IN CREATING SPACES THAT APPEAR ESTABLISHED AND FULLY DEVELOPED FROM THE MOMENT OF COMPLETION

Founded over four decades ago by Randle Siddeley, RSL specialises in innovative landscapes and stunning gardens for private residences, hotels and commercial developments worldwide. Together with Randle—who is closely involved in every project—the design team (which includes landscape architects, urban designers, horticulturalists and garden designers) use their creative flair and obsessive attention to detail to deliver classic yet contemporary schemes that always surpass clients' exacting expectations.

Recent projects include transforming a segmented garden in Holland Park into a cohesive sanctuary with two distinct outdoor rooms: a dining area with a pergola structure and clever features such as heating grills in the paving under the table for year-round entertaining, and a sunken lounge with a custom seating area and an electric parasol. Elsewhere, on a 27-acre private residence stretching along the River Thames, the team added wild plants and grasses to the formally structured lawns so they can be enjoyed freely by the client's grandchildren. The hedgerows were reduced to open-up the views and connect the house to the wider landscape.

While many of the company's plans are crafted in-house, RSL also frequently tenders and negotiates on schemes by other esteemed landscape designers. The construction division comprises experts who, using traditional craftsmanship skills alongside modern methods and equipment, deliver beautiful gardens time and again. They also specialise in constructing roof terraces and commercial landscapes for private clients, developers, and contractors within the high-end residential sector.

RSL takes pride in creating spaces that appear established and fully developed from the moment of completion. Like all living projects, however, they flourish and mature with age. The company employs a substantial team of garden and landscape maintenance professionals who work on annual contracts or on one-off jobs, to ensure that clients' outdoor spaces look immaculate all year round.
